We would like to point out, that we use only natural materials and therefore it is possible that when choosing one of the colours shown, an exact copy will not be possible, as the shading or graining is likely to differ slightly. Colours can also vary from one quarry to another.

Computer Technology

We use the most advanced computer technology available to ensure our work is carried out to the highest standard. This means that all lettering, pictures and designs are engraved to perfection. We are also able to engrave any kind of lettering and design required.

Inscriptions

We specialise in all inscriptions and will spend with you as many hours as you want to help you choose the appropriate wording and quotes at no extra cost. We can help you in all aspects of the wording, whether you choose all Hebrew or Hebrew and English. Our extensive knowledge of Hebrew and its grammar means that we guarantee that all wording will be completed to perfection. We are also able to help and guide you to put together a beautiful inscription that is right for you.

Every letter that we engrave is done to perfection. This means that all letters are equal in size, proportion and depth, every letter looks like the letter it is meant to be.

These factors are extremely important and because of our expertise in inscriptions, we can ensure the letters are engraved to perfection. This knowledge has ensured us the continued support and backing of many Rabbonim and leaders from all the communities across the UK.

The types of stone most commonly used for memorial stones are:
Yorkshire Sandstone, Italian White Marble and Granite.

Yorkshire Sandstone

This stone is quarried locally; it is a sandy material and can also change colour as a result of the weather, attracts dirt and algae. At one time this stone was very popular. As more choice is now available; people use it far less. An advantage of this stone is that it is more durable and hardwearing than white marble and the lettering itself stays in good condition.

Italian White Marble

The marble we use comes from Italy and is of the finest quality. However, there are two main problems with marble; the first is that it gets dirty very quickly. Secondly, it is a porous material and it will be affected by the bad weather, especially the acid rain. Unfortunately, there is nothing anyone can do about this. The only thing we can do is to supply the finest high grade marble, in order that it should not deteriorate as quickly as cheaper quality marble.

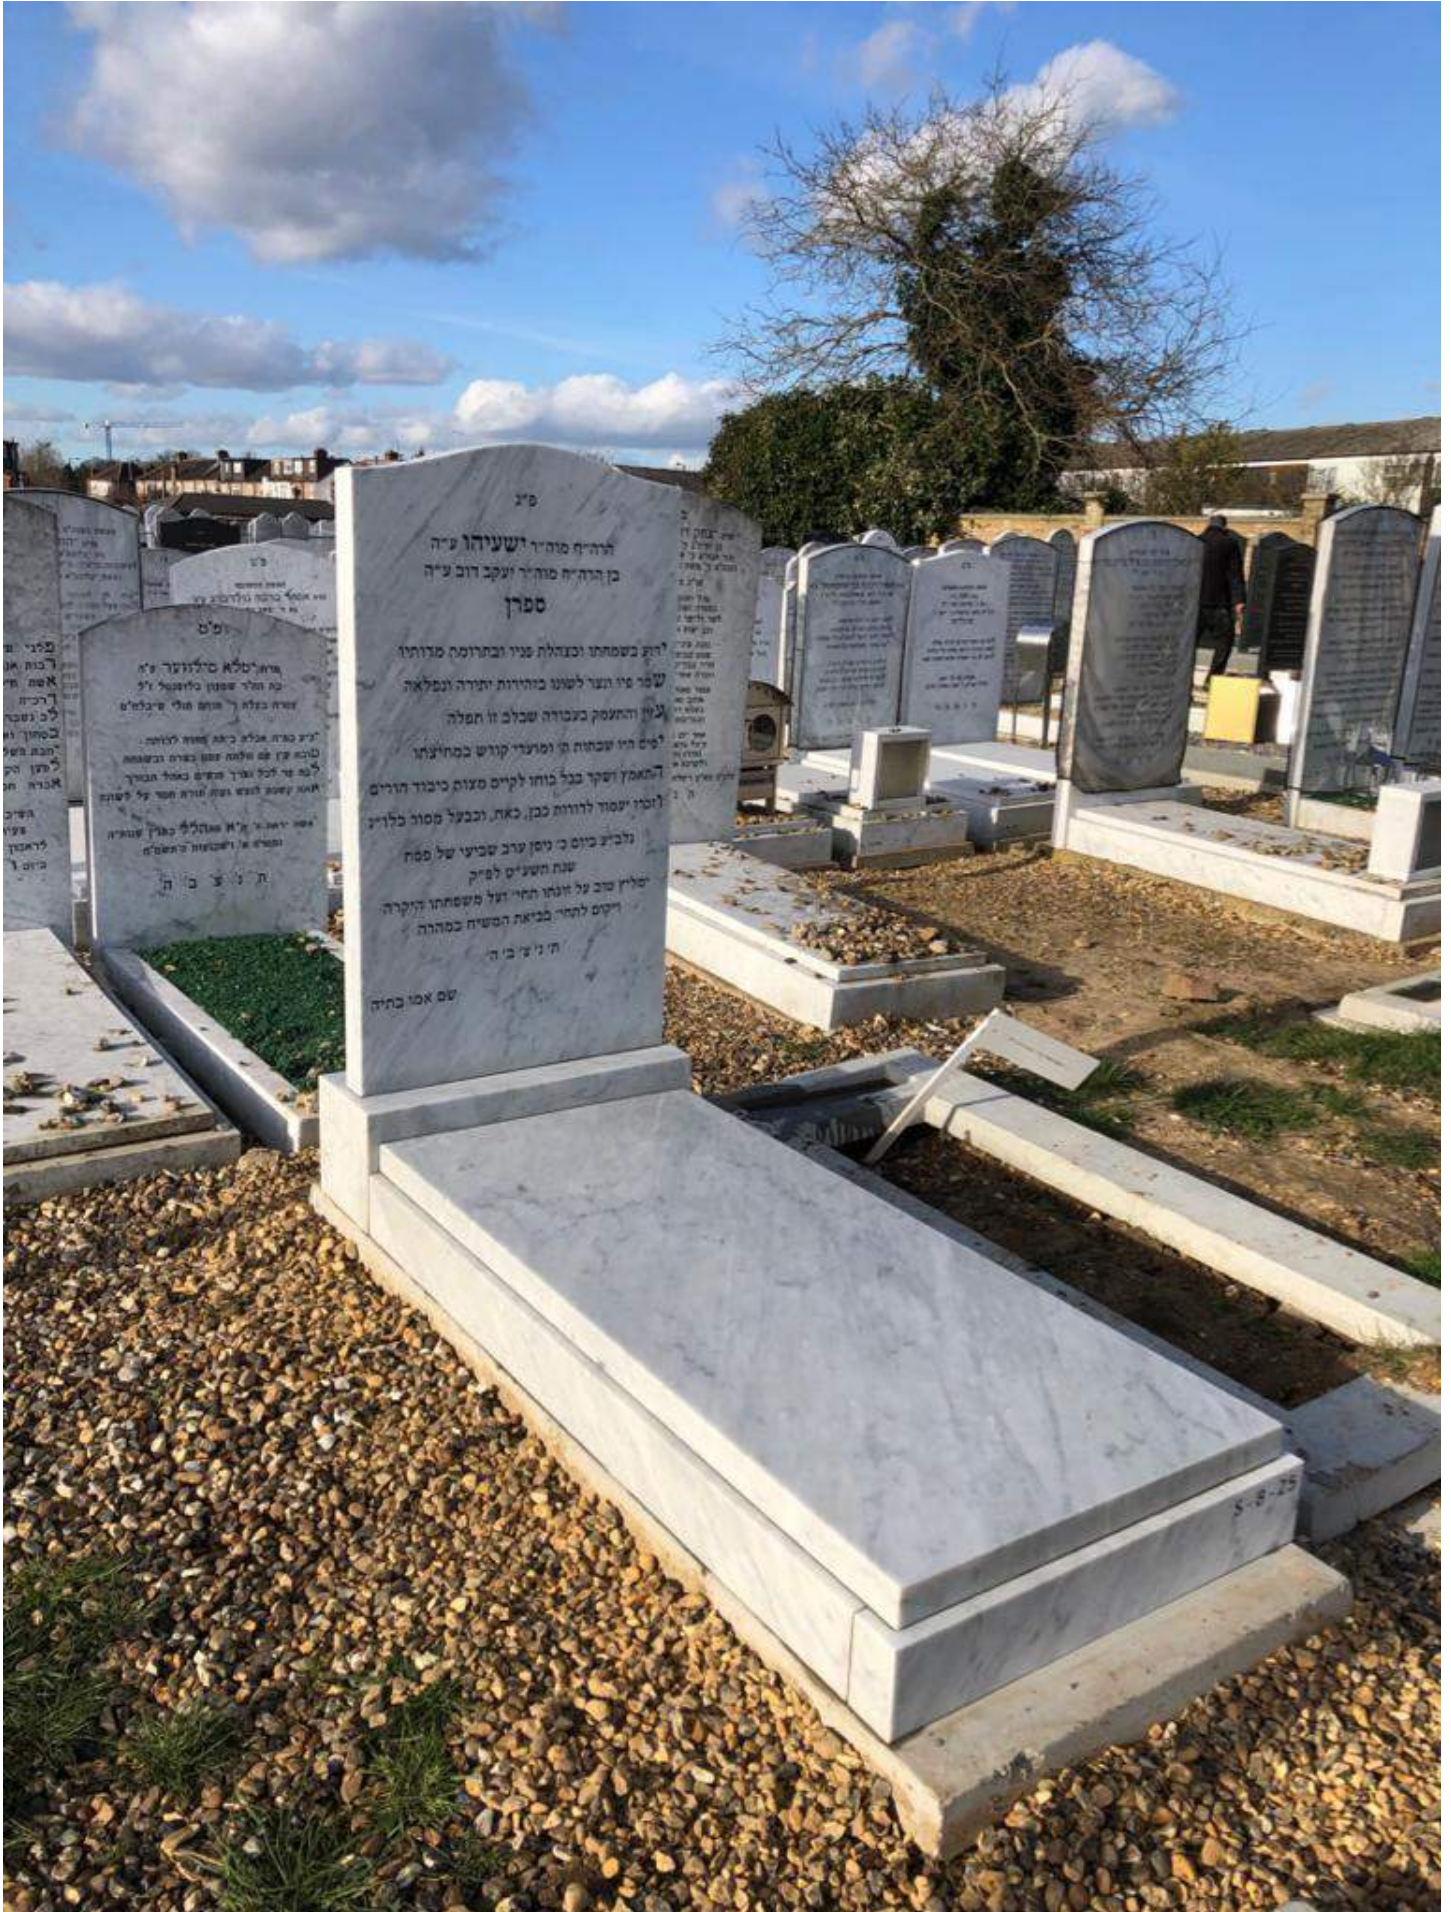

We are at present working on a special chemical which will eventually be used to preserve memorial stones and stop them from reacting badly to weather conditions. When this will be completed, we will be the only stockist of this chemical solution.

Mixed Marble & Granite – Tomb Design

There is one option which some families prefer, half marble, half granite. The advantage of this design is the aesthetics.

Mixed Marble & Granite – Ledger Design

Granite

Granite is the most superior quality material available, which is why it is so popular. It is strong, long-lasting, easy to clean, attractive and non-porous. A tremendous amount of work goes into making this stone beautifully polished and ready to engrave, from its original raw state. When you take into consideration all the assets that this stone has, the price really does reflect this beautiful quality stone. Granite is available in many different beautiful colours!

NB. There are many different grades of granite. Not every type of granite is suitable for the monumental trade, as some granite's are soft and porous and can absorb the weather. Please be aware when purchasing a memorial that you are being supplied the correct granite for its use. A cheaper price can be reflecting an inferior quality stone. Granites can look the same at first, but you might not be buying the correct quality granite!

Chinese Granite

Some granite producers / factories polish the granite with an added colour dye. After a short time, this dye can wear out causing the stone to appear like its losing its colouring.

"The problems with these types of stone are, they absorb the weather and leave a lot of water marks and look very patchy, showing dark and light areas."

It is important when buying a memorial stone to understand what it is you are being supplied with. Our aim is to give you all the knowledge to help you come to an informative decision!

I can provide the Chinese Granite as represented in the pictures below. These memorial stones look beautiful, but the colouring can deteriorate as described above!

Fees

All burial authorities charge an admission fee for new memorials. These fees are not included in the price of the memorial stone, but are an extra and will be paid separately. We can pay the fees on behalf of our client, or the client can pay the fees directly to the relevant burial board themselves. The fees tend to vary from Shul to Shul and from authority to authority, depending on who owns the relevant plot of land.

There are some cemeteries that have fixed rules about the type of stone, design or dimensions to be used. In those cases we are obliged to adhere to all rules. Apart from those cases we can supply and design anything our customer's desire.
